To Whom It May Concern:

Please find this letter confirmation that Sarang Solhdoost is part of the Kodak Canada, United Way, PhotoSensitive photography exhibit A HAND OF HOPE.

This past Spring, 39 high school photography students from the Greater Toronto Area were chosen to participate in this project. Each student was partnered with a professional photographer from PhotoSensitive. (PhotoSensitive is a group of Toronto photographers who have chosen to give something back to the community in the forum of documentary photography. See enclosed brochure of previous exhibit.) For this project the student photographers and pros were asked to capture, through their camera, a sense of the giving and sharing that occurs in United Way agencies. The result of their work is the exhibit A HAND OF HOPE.

The exhibit opens at the Design Exchange (King & Bay) on Wednesday, October 11, 1995 at 11:00am.

Each student photographer has played an important roll in this exhibit and we would like to have each student attend. Thank you for your support.

Should you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.
